

the broken windows. The large establishments are occupied by troops, with sentinels posted in front of the first and second floors.

A few persons were arrested about 12 o'clock, in the neighborhood of the Pont St. Michel, which connects the two parts of the Rue St. Martin with the Rue de l'Université. They were escorted by detachment of about twenty men from the office of Justice; two women were arrested and taken to prison. In the Rue Rambuteau several workmen are employed in replacing the window which had been broken up for barricades. In the Rue St. Martin the portes-cochères are blocked up with broken carriages of every kind, that had also been used as barricades.

Five thousand soldiers still occupy the entrepôt of the Customs House in the Faubourg du Temple. They execute their orders with rigor, and when the people remonstrate about passing, they reply they must obey their orders. Two persons who had been shot last night, who persisted in crossing the bridge of the canal, in violation of the orders of the General commanding.

The troops have been withdrawn from the Pantheon, the Place St. Sulpice, and Place St. Michel. The building of the Luxembourg is still occupied, and the gardens remain shut, as a measure of precaution.

Interments of persons killed in the insurrection are still made in quarters. A man named Dauphin, a conservateur, was killed by accident on the boulevard Poissonnière, while standing at his window, was buried this morning in the church of Bonne Nouvelle. His political friends wished to profit by the occasion, to make a pacific manifestation by attending the funeral in considerable numbers. The police, being informed of their intention, ordered the funeral for 8 o'clock this morning instead of 12, and it consequently went off without any incidents.

I have been told it is positive that but very few of the regiments who took part in the insurrection, I have heard of several establishments where the men continued at work as usual, the whole of Thursday and Thursday night. I know of one in the Rue Rambuteau, where 600 men are employed. The proprietor, the moment the insurrection began, paid them the wages due to them, and said, "you may now do as you please—but remember, that any one of you that quits my establishment this day never returns to it again. They are remained at their work.

A number of prisoners, who made an attempt to escape from their cells on Thursday evening when a prisoner, who had succeeded in breaking through the wall of the Conciergerie was also shot. Thirty young men belonging to the same manufacturing establishment, who were taken prisoners, are now in course of trial by court martial.

(From the London Standard)

PANIS, Sunday Evening.—I alluded, in my letter of this morning, to a statement of the Patrice, that two London newspapers had been interdicted, and their correspondents ordered to leave. As yet nothing has taken place to confirm this piece of intelligence; but a circumstance occurred which is probably not unconnected with the Patrice in question. The London papers, both morning and evening, have been detained for examination. They are, in fact, submitted à la caisse, without exception.

The aspect of Galignani's celebrated reading-room would, at this moment, furnish a capital entree for Punch, or the more sober but not wiser Illustrated London News. On the French table there are the Moniteur, the Constitutionnel, and the Patrice—government papers; the Univers, rejoicing in the adage to Mr. de Montalbert of the Pantheon, from whose walls, par parenthèse, are to be scraped the names of the Constituent Assembly, the Gazette des Débats, with its harmless accounts of trials of pickpockets, and a few country papers. The Libélat, Assemblée Nationale, and Paris, appear to form a safe harbor; but the press, as far as I can learn, is in a state of confusion. The London papers, both morning and evening, have been detained for examination. They are, in fact, submitted à la caisse, without exception. The aspect of Galignani's celebrated reading-room would, at this moment, furnish a capital entree for Punch, or the more sober but not wiser Illustrated London News. On the French table there are the Moniteur, the Constitutionnel, and the Patrice—government papers; the Univers, rejoicing in the adage to Mr. de Montalbert of the Pantheon, from whose walls, par parenthèse, are to be scraped the names of the Constituent Assembly, the Gazette des Débats, with its harmless accounts of trials of pickpockets, and a few country papers. The Libélat, Assemblée Nationale, and Paris, appear to form a safe harbor; but the press, as far as I can learn, is in a state of confusion. The London papers, both morning and evening, have been detained for examination. They are, in fact, submitted à la caisse, without exception.

The present aspect of affairs appears to have produced general alarm, for the dealers will scarcely operate unless it is for the ball; but as there are no buyers, or comparatively few, for much of what is offered, business is, for the present, paralyzed.

The dealers are anxious to get rid of their surplus.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot and shell upon them until they had nearly sunk. Rabat, and completely disabled.

The Univers, this morning, did not fire from the fire at the end of the latter place, and from some pieces of ordnance which they had at the former, by which he had no chance of receiving before the expiration of ten days. This not being deemed satisfactory by the Admirals, he gave orders to prepare for action, and the Univers was to be bombarded.

At 10 o'clock, the Univers began to bombard the Rabat, under steam, and continued for eight hours to pour shot